the first publication of the remarkable personal collection of eminent photographic historian naomi rosenblum naomi rosenblum 1925 2021 was the leading historian of photography in her lifetime her two major books a world history of photography and a history of women photographers furthered the recognition of photography as a central art form of the twentieth century and one in which women played a critical role rosenblum's deep knowledge and remarkable eye are evident in the collection of photography that she and her family built in her lifetime this beautifully designed volume conceived by naomi and her daughters nina and lisa marks the first publication of the family's exceptional collection which is focused on work that combines aesthetic considerations with humanist values the photographers represented range from pioneers like alfred stieglitz margaret bourke white dorothea lange lewis hine paul strand the subject of naomi rosenblum's doctoral dissertation and her husband walter rosenblum to acclaimed contemporary practitioners including mary ellen mark ming smith and sebastiao salgado the collection is intergenerational and also includes important examples of twentieth century sculpture by such artists as lynn chadwick and barry flanagan essays by several distinguished contributors including artist and scholar deborah willis curator barbara tannenbaum milan based curator and writer enrica vigano and editor and writer diana c stoll celebrate and elucidate naomi rosenblum's life and career a humanist vision is both a fitting tribute to a path breaking scholar and a contribution to the photographic literature in its own right new york city's lower east side long viewed as the space of what jacob riis notoriously called the other half was also a crucible for experimentation in photography film literature and visual technologies this book takes an unprecedented look at the practices of observation that emerged from this critical site of encounter showing how they have informed literary and everyday narratives of america its citizens and its possible futures taking readers from the mid nineteenth century to the present sara blair traces the career of the lower east side as a place where image makers writers and social reformers tested new techniques for apprehending america and their subjects looked back confronting the means used to represent them this dynamic shaped the birth of american photojournalism the writings of stephen crane and abraham cahan and the forms of early cinema during the 1930s the emptying ghetto opened contested views of the modern city animating the work of such writers and photographers as henry roth walker evans and ben shahn after world war ii the lower east side became a key resource for imagining poetic revolution as in the work of allen ginsberg and leroi jones and exploring dystopian futures from cold war atomic strikes to the death of print culture and the threat of climate change how the other half looks reveals how the lower east side has inspired new ways of looking and looking back that have shaped literary and popular expression as well as american modernity this book delves into the past and examines the origins of activism against child labour it addresses a hitherto under examined question how and why did child labour develop into a key concern between the 1880s and 1930s who were the protagonists who first raised the issue of child labour as a global concern the study aims to provide the first account of the history of diverse and locally grounded but nationally and frequently globally connected child labour opponents in the americas their motivations and campaigns at the turn of the 20th century i argue that for the period between 1888 and 1938 one can identify similar protagonists a joint goal a broadly similar timing common platforms comparable campaigning mechanisms and many types of connections or entanglements across regions nevertheless in contrast to the global anti slavery movement child labour opponents formed a loosely institutionalised network which lacked an international organisation that focused specifically on child labour a global history approach to child labour opponents helps reveal large scale patterns across societies and highlight similarities and differences between cases
